Back to Paphos Water Park today to take advantage of the 2nd day half price offer. Left reasonably early to get there as close as possible to the 10 opening time. We did not get quite as lost this time so it only took an hour or so.

This time the wave machine was working:

It's a small world, Kahra bumped in to Chloe Richardson of March Marins!

On the way driving back we were higher than the clouds (check out the picture). It was a weird experience standing by the side of a road looking down at the clouds, I can only remember doing that from a plane before.
