The laziest morning yet, up late (9) had a long swim and then a couple of hours updating the blog. Kids having fun chilling out, swimming, DVD, Hawaii 5 O and DS's, Now about 1pm so going to start getting ready for a trip to a beach.

In the end it was after 4pm when we got to the beach at Pomos Point.

There is a small village harbour with a beach on either side both ideal for snorkelling which we has seen when we viewed from a restaurant above on our first trip out last Sunday. I took a devil-may-care attitude and swam from one beach across the harbour in to the next beach, only to regret it half way across ;-)

In the end it was after 4pm when we got to the beach at Pomos Point.

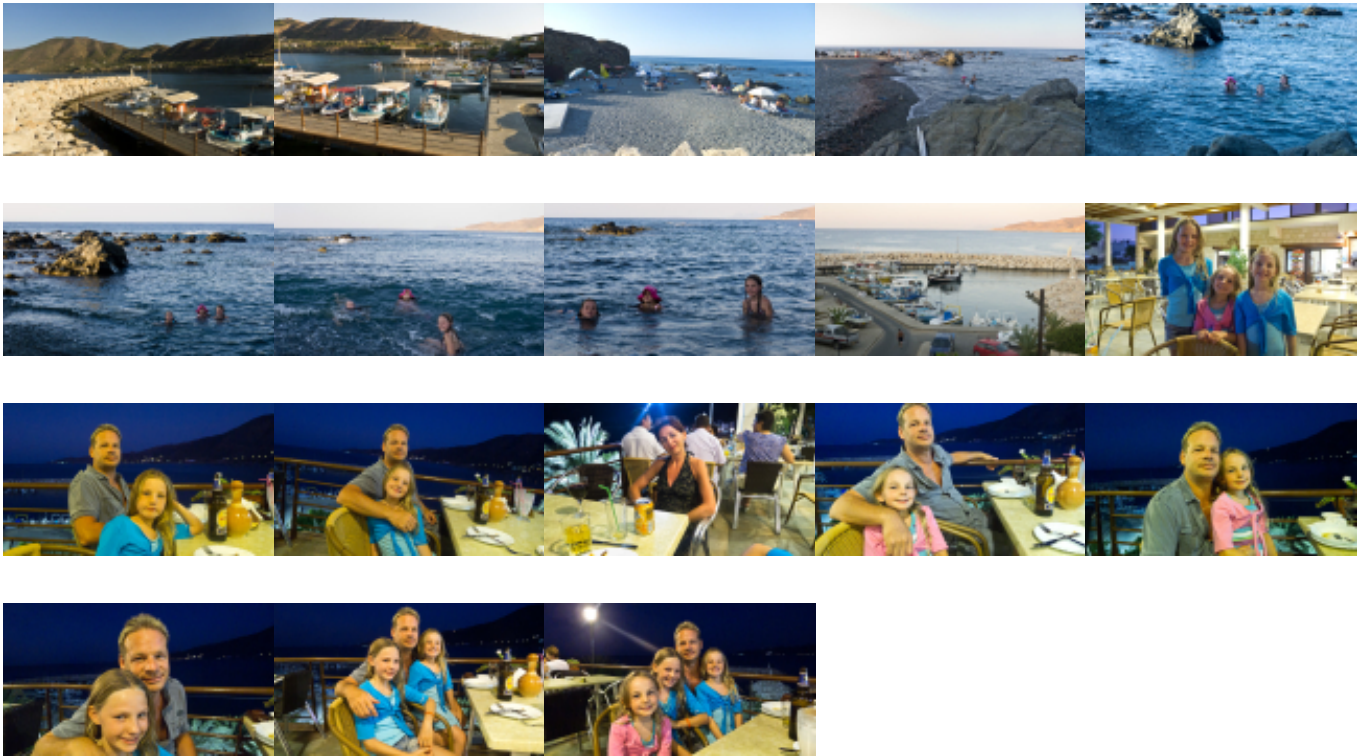

As the sun set we went to the Kanalli Fish Tavern directly above the harbour and had another great meal. When the bill came I was sure they had missed off a carafe of red wine and a Keo, which made it all the more enjoyable.

On the way home we checked out a beach bar that we had spotted earlier, just to make sure it has free WiFi, it does and we are planning another full on relaxing day tomorrow, after church of course!

When we got home the kids were too tired and went straight to bed. For a change Lucy and I went for a swim, I was surprised, but Lucy did impress me with her backstroke!!
